INDIANAPOLIS, August 3.—If a number of Progressive leaders who refuse to be bound by the action of the national committee of the party in endorsing Charles Evans Hughes, have their way today there will be a Bull Moose candidate in the field to oppose Hughes and Wilson in the race for the White House.

There has been more or less dissatisfaction with the action of the committee in endorsing Hughes, and the feeling has been manifest in a large number of States. New Jersey Progressives, for instance, have flatly refused to rally to the support of the Republican candidate, in spite of heavy pressure. Other States have shown a similar unwillingness to return to the Republican fold, and even in such States as Tennessee, where the Progressive organization has appeared willing to obey the mandates of the committee, the yielding has been lukewarm in the extreme, if all accounts are to be believed.

Sentiment of South Shown

The sentiment has been mounting steadily, and the recent statement of John M. Parker at New Orleans, and the action of the Louisiana Progressive convention in endorsing Parker as Vice-Presidential candidate of the party, and ignoring the endorsement of Hughes, has been regarded as significant of the sentiment in the South.

A "third" led to the sending out of a call for a gathering here of party leaders who are opposed to the idea of endorsing Hughes and permitting the Bull Moose party to die. The question has been put to a number of these men, asking them if they would favor reconstituting the Progressive national convention in this city and nominating a candidate for the Presidency.

These leaders have already begun to arrive for the meeting at which this question will be discussed. Most of them, interviewed last night, indicated that they are in favor of the idea.

Available Candidate Lacking

They admitted that the greatest objection to the plan is the apparent lack of available candidates, since the withdrawal of Colonel Roosevelt and his action in endorsing the candidacy of Hughes.

A large number of men have been mentioned as possible candidates, including that of Victor M. McKim, the Kansas, and Hiram W. Johnson, governor of California. The action of Johnson in supporting the move made by Roosevelt is regarded as making it impossible to nominate him.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

COPENHAGEN, August 3.—It is regarded as certain that the Rigsdahl will accept the offer of the United States government to purchase the Danish West Indies.

The feeling has been growing in official and semi-official circles that the proposed sale would prove of great benefit to Denmark, and it is thought likely that the legislature will feel that way, in spite of opposition which has developed against the plan in some quarters.

The socialists are among the leaders in opposing the plan and are demanding that the negotiators be given the vote immediately so that they may have a say in the disposition of their territory.

LONDON, August 2.—The reason why the British government refused to allow S. S. McClure, the noted American publisher, to remain in England or to proceed further in Europe was explained today by Mr. McClure. He said that his passport authorized a visit to Switzerland, as well as France and England, and that this caused difficulties, as the English officials suggested he might go to Germany. He will sail for New York tomorrow on the American liner Philadelphia.

DEUTSCHLAND PUTS TO SEA IN TWILIGHT

German Submarine Freighter
Dives Within Three-Mile Limit
On Homeward Voyage

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

NORFOLK, August 3.—After lying at anchor off Thimble Shoals Light for several hours, the German submarine Deutschland made her dash for the open sea last night, passing the cape between night and nine o'clock. Apparently the Deutschland was on patrol outside of the mouth of Chesapeake Bay did not observe the submarine, which was accompanied to the cape by the tug Timmins and the newspaper men's launch, a swift craft that made good with ease to keep in sight of the speeding undersea freighter.

The last part of yesterday was spent by the submarine at anchor, waiting for the night and the opportunity to slip away before the searchlights of the waiting allied cruiser could pick her up. Captain Koenig selected the period at half light, when the water and sky blend and it is still too bright for the searchlight beams to prove effective.

Then he started his engines at full speed and did eighteen miles so swiftly that the patrolling tug had more than she could accomplish to keep up with the submarine. The captain of the Timmins declared that the Deutschland submerged before the three-mile limit was reached, and that her periscope was the last he saw of her.

After leaving Baltimore the Deutschland proceeded down Chesapeake Bay at a moderate rate of speed, and was seen passing Tangier Sound early yesterday morning, having taken the night to make the sixty or seventy miles. She came to anchor off Thimble Shoals Light early in the day and remained there until time to start for her dash seawards.

It is believed that Captain Koenig intends to make a wide sweep to the south, and then head his craft for the north of Scotland, giving the English "hauled a wide birth."

LONDON, August 3.—British naval officers here admitted last night that they have been following the reports of the progress of the Deutschland with great interest. They expressed the belief that the Deutschland will make the trip home in safety, and declared that they have little hope that she will be trapped by a British warship before her master can get her into port. One official said that Great Britain is determined to arrest her if possible. He declined to discuss the possibility that she will be sunk if sighted by a British war vessel.

Warren K. Billings Singled Out As
Person Who Had San Francisco Bomb

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

SAN FRANCISCO, August 3.—Fresh evidence has been collected by the police and the district attorney's office, in their investigation of the bomb outrage, and it apparently has tied the knot still tighter around two of the five persons under indictment charged with complicity in the plot that led to the preparation of the outrage.

The district attorney announced last night that a man, whom he calls "John McDaniels," but whom he refused to identify, for fear that "McDaniels" might come to some harm, has positively identified Warren K. Billings, as the person seen at the spot where the explosion occurred, carrying a suitcase such as that which has been proved to have contained the high explosives that did the work of the plotters.

"McDaniels" also has identified Thomas Mooney, labor leader, as a man he afterwards saw talking to Billings at a nearby street corner. The conversation is said to have taken place before the explosion.

The grand jury yesterday returned eight indictments in the bomb case, naming five suspects. The five are Thomas Mooney and his wife, Warren K. Billings, Edward Nolan, a well known leader of union and Israel Weinberg, a jitney driver. Weinberg is accused of having aided the bombmen in making their escape after the explosion.

The resolution was sent to the committee on foreign relations.

WOMEN PREPARE FOR BIG FIGHT TO EXTEND VOTE

Organization of Twelve States
Will Enter Presidential Campaign For Equal Rights

EXPECTS TO MAKE SOME
STRIDES FOR THE CAUSE

National Convention To Be Held
At Which Program Will Be
Shaped For Fall Crusade

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, August 1.—Women's part in the forthcoming presidential campaign in the movement for equal suffrage, promising the most active participation of women in national politics in American history, will be planned when women suffrage leaders, militants and pacifists meet at Colorado Springs for a three-day conference of the National Woman's Party, August 10-12. The conference will consider what policy the new suffrage party, organized last June at Chicago, shall adopt in the coming campaign to secure submission to the States by Congress of a national suffrage constitutional amendment.

Whether support to the Democratic, Republican or Progressive parties will be given by women favoring a national suffrage amendment, leaders here declare, will be definitely decided at the Colorado Springs conference. While the conference called is primarily for officers and leaders in the suffrage campaign, it is expected that hundreds of women of the rank and file of suffrage workers will attend.

Miss Anna Martin of Nevada, chairman of the Woman's Party, will preside, and addresses will be made by many women prominent in the suffrage propaganda.

Campaign in Twelve States

Plans have already been completed for the campaign of the Woman's Party in the twelve suffrage States—Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Headquarters will be at Chicago, in charge of Miss Martin.

A campaign fund, which is expected to reach the $500,000 mark, is also being collected by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York. State campaign managers have been selected and a large array of stump speakers chosen. Each will tour all of the suffrage States. Mrs. Charlotte Perkins, Mrs. Rheta Childe Dorr, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Miss Rose Winslow and Miss Crystal Eastman of New York and Mrs. J. A. H. Hopkins of Morristown, New Jersey, are among the speakers.

The speakers will be carefully routed and a publicity campaign, with much literature appealing to voting women of the western suffrage States, will be circulated. Political cartoons by Mrs. Nina E. Allender, said to be the only woman political cartoonist in the country, will be a feature.

Whether these campaign forces will be thrown for or against the nominees of existing political parties, or whether an independent ticket will be formed, is the decision to be made at the Colorado Springs conference.

The status of the national suffrage amendment in congress also will be considered at the opening session, August 10. It is expected that by that time congress will be on the point of adjourning and the fate of the Susan B. Anthony amendment probably known. Should the Democrats in control of congress fail to act upon it, leaders here declared, that will be an important factor in the probable decision regarding support of or opposition to the Democratic Party by the Woman's Party.

Suffragists Will Judge

"Suffragists will judge the Democratic party by its deeds and not by its promises, since, being the party in power, it has had and still has the power to pass the federal amendment," was the statement of Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the Congressional Union.

During the first day's session at Colorado Springs Miss Maud Younger of California, secretary of the Congressional Union's advisory committee; Mrs. Florence Bayard Hill of Delaware, Mrs. William Kent, wife of Representative Kent of California, and Mrs. Sara Bard Field of Oregon, who brought the monster suffrage petition to the White House last December upon the opening of congress, will recite the efforts made during the present congressional session for passage of the resolution submitting the suffrage amendment.

The election policy of the Woman's Party will be the sole business of the second session August 11. Among the speakers on the program are Miss Paul, Miss Martin, Miss Mabel Vernon, secretary of the Woman's party; Mrs. Dora Phelps Bull of Colorado, a member of the Congressional Union's advisory council, and Miss Gail Laughlin of California. At this session formal resolutions outlining the party's policy will be adopted.

The final session August 12 will be devoted to the election policy.

FIVE HUNDRED DIE IN ZONE OF FLAME

Forest Fires Are Reported Still Sweeping Over Sections of Northern Ontario

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

TORONTO, August 3.—Fragmentary news from the north has led from a tremendous blackened fire zone in northern Ontario indicates that the most destructive forest conflagration in the history of the Dominion has been raging for days and is still doing much damage.

The refugees estimate that at least 500 people have lost their lives in the fire-swept zone. Many were trapped inside the burning circle and could not escape as the tide of flame swept through the thick timber and underbrush.

Many women and children and some entire families are among the perished. Some were smothered in caves whether they had fled for refuge. From several far away sections no reports whatever have been received.

Despatches say that the villages of Ste. Anne de La Pointe, Quebec, have sent fire fighters as well as relief supplies for the destitute and suffering. Despatches from Quebec say, the fire at Ste. Anne de La Pointe has destroyed the convent there. The fire at this point is now extinguished.

FOUR HUNDRED ARE DEAD

COBALT, Ontario, August 3.—Conservative estimates of the deaths caused by the forest fire in North Ontario, now place the number at 400. The fire has still been raging in some of the backwoods localities.

GUN-TOTERS MARKED FOR POLICE SCRUTINY

Dealers in Firearms Must Report
Sales Each Week

Gun-toters are marked men. Hereafter the man who purchases firearms, from any one of the eight dealers having weapons for sale, will have his name known to the sheriff and also to the city clerk.

Blanks have been furnished the dealers, and will make weekly reports to the clerk, duplicate copies being sent to the sheriff. These reports will name all persons who buy firearms. It is also required by law that the purchaser of the gun report to the clerk.

Having paid for a weapon, however, does not entitle the purchaser to carry it concealed. Suspicious characters are liable to have their firearms will be watched by the police.

devoted to campaign conferences, of state chairmen, organizers, stump speakers and others. In the call for the conference the Woman's party executive committee declares that "women's political power has more than doubled since the last Presidential election."

Suffrage Has Grown

"In 1912 there were only six suffrage states, with about 2,000,000 woman qualified to vote," it is stated. "These six suffrage states elected only 37 members to the electoral college. Today there are twelve suffrage states controlling ninety-one electoral votes, with over 4,000,000 women qualified to vote for President. The fact that these states control one fifth of the electoral college and cast one-third of the votes necessary to elect a President, gives woman voters the power to determine the election of the next President."

That one fourth of the Senate's membership and one sixth of that of the House come from suffrage states is also pointed out by leaders as indicating the potential power of women in the forthcoming elections.

In addition to deciding whether any of the presidential candidates shall be supported by the Woman's party, the conference will also consider participation in the congressional campaign in supporting or opposing candidates for the Senate and House in the suffrage states.

Two campaign managers will have charge of the suffrage battle in the twelve "free" states. One will be stationed at Miss Martin's general headquarters at Chicago and one in each state. Those appointed so far follow:

HAWAIIAN UKULELE MENACED BY BETTER MADE INSTRUMENTS

Island Makers Must Improve
Methods Declares Letter From Sherman, Clay & Co.

COAST MUSIC DEALERS
WRITE OF THEIR NEEDS

American Manufacturers Said To Be Turning Out Superior
Article of Koa

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

The Hawaiian ukulele has been placed on the defensive in the mainland market by the vast output of American-made ukuleles, according to a statement made by one of the most prominent musical firms upon the mainland—Sherman, Clay & Company, of San Francisco.

This firm intimates that unless the Hawaiian-made ukulele is constructed by the most modern methods, with due regard to tone and finish, it is doomed to retirement in favor of the more cheaply made American instrument.

The promotion committee for several years has given much publicity to the unique Hawaiian ukulele, following up with stories of its peculiar birth, and surrounding it with the halo of romance and linking its name with accounts of moonlight nights and luau and the atmosphere of the "Paradise of the Pacific." This publicity, combined with the fact that many tourists take away from Hawaii a genuine Hawaiian ukulele has made this instrument popular from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and created a demand which the local manufacturers have difficulty in filling.

Secretary Taylor of the promotion committee has made every effort through correspondence and otherwise to make a strong fight in favor of the Hawaiian-made ukulele, and was one of the original advocates to favor a "Made-in-Hawaii" label specifically for ukulele use.

Wants Hawaiian Ukuleles

Recently, the Promotion Committee noticed an advertisement of Sherman, Clay's with reference to "ukuleles" and suggested that the firm use the name "Hawaiian" before ukuleles. In a letter to Taylor the firm replied that three-fourths of the ukuleles sold are of American manufacture and not Hawaiian. Following up this matter and making further suggestions, Secretary Taylor received another letter in the last mail in which it was stated that unless different manufacturing methods were pursued by the Hawaiian makers, the American product would soon have the supremacy.

The promotion committee, in cooperation with the Pan-Pacific Club, has made, in making and will continue to make a strong fight in favor of the Hawaiian-made instrument as against the American counterfeit, and efforts will be made to get a collection of both Hawaiian-made and American-made ukuleles here, so that whatever differences of make in favor of the American-made instrument may be taken advantage of," said Mr. Taylor yesterday.

Sherman, Clay's letter appears the following:

Better Local Makers

"It is true that there are some cheap imitations of Hawaiian ukuleles being made in this country of mahogany, of cedar wood and of soft woods, such as birch and poplar, but it is equally true that there are many thousands of ukuleles being made in this country of genuine Hawaiian koa, and of infinitely better construction than any that are being turned out in the islands, and were genuine Hawaiian labels placed in these instruments it would be extremely flattering to the Hawaiian manufacturers."

"We would really like to have you see a few of the better grade genuine koa ukuleles that are being made here, as we are confident that even the most superficial examination would convince you that in every detail of construction and finish there is no more comparison between the best instrument turned out in Hawaii and these than there is between the cheapest stencil piano sold for $150 and the finest Steinway. It would be an eye-opener to island makers if they could have the privilege of examining such instruments, and it might lead to efforts on their part to improve their product."

Want Island Instruments

"We do wish you to get the impression from the above remarks that we are in any way antagonistic to the island article. As a matter of fact, we are doing our level best to sell genuine Hawaiian ukuleles in preference to American-made ukuleles, whether constructed of koa or of the other woods."

"We do not claim any idealistic principles in this; it is simply a matter of dollars and cents with us. We recognize the fact that when the atmosphere and glamor are removed from the article, it will be commercialized to an extent that will materially cut down the profits, and it is for that reason solely that we are doing everything in our power to convince the public that the genuine Hawaiian ukulele is the only article of the kind worth consideration."

"We must tell you frankly, however, that the time is not far distant when the American article will, in a very large measure, supplant the Hawaiian, unless the Hawaiian manufacturers take steps to place their product on

ALL BATTLE FRONTS GET READY FOR NEXT BLOW

Which Revives Old Story of Field
Marshal's Marriage With Indian Princess

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

Great Britain is concerned with a mystery that concerns no less a personage than the late Earl Kitchener, who perished when the Hampshire, the cruiser in which he was going to Russia, was sunk off the Orkney Islands, north of Scotland. The mystery is created by a line in the will of the late field marshal of Great Britain, which reads:

"Broome Park, with advowsons or manors and all land freehold or copyhold tenure in the county of Kent to the use of my first and other sons and with remainder to the use of my first daughter and other daughters."

"What does this mean?" was the question that every Britisher asked himself when the copy of the will, was made public at Doctor's Commons, London, according to letters received in the British Colony here yesterday.

Ever since Kitchener was a subaltern in the Egyptian army, thirty or forty years ago, he was recognized both in the army and in the outside world of society as a "woman hater." As a young man at school and at college, his friends knew that it was useless to attempt to get him to meet women. He would have none of the opposite sex, keeping himself very much to himself and avoiding all intimacy with "petticoats."

As he grew older and came more and more into the public eye this attitude of his became more and more thoroughly understood by everyone. He was frequently quoted as having said that a soldier should regard himself as "married to his regiment," and that "officers had no right to marry while they had active work to perform."

Because of this stern attitude the report that became current in British army circles about thirty years ago, to the effect that Kitchener, when becoming large in the public eye, because of his remarkable campaigns in Egypt, was married and that his wife had left him, grew like a mushroom over night. It assumed all sorts of fantastic shapes. His wife was the daughter of a prominent Indian official, and she had left him immediately after their marriage and refused to return. It was asserted that he had loved her for years and that for this reason declined to have anything to do with others of her sex. Other accounts of the yarn declared that the bride was the daughter of an Indian rajah, who had brought with her a perfectly fabulous dowry in gold and jewels.

Kitchener Pays No heed

But Kitchener kept on the strenuous tour of duty, ignoring the tales about him, and the story finally subsiding. It cropped out again several times. Indeed it ran a close second to the repeated announcements of the field marshal's engagement to some of the available women of Great Britain and the United States. When Lord Kitchener was in this country several years ago mainland papers reprinted the story with many variations.

But in all the years Kitchener gave no sign. Then came his death and the subsequent publication of his will, disposing of a net personal estate valued at 146,846 pounds sterling, or approximately three quarters of a million dollars.

Continuing the will, after disposing of Broome, from which the late field marshal took one of his titles, says:

"With remainder to Comd. H. T. Chevallier Kitchener, B. N., son of my brother, H. E. Chevallier Kitchener; with remainder to his sons, according to seniority in the male line; with remainder to H. Kitchener, son of my brother, Sir F. Walter Kitchener, with remainder to his first and other sons."

After speaking of the many awards of honor, plate and other gifts by the public or by official bodies, the will says:

"A sum of fifty thousand pounds to be treated as capital under the settled land act to be set aside from Broome Park income, to Colonel Fitzgerald."

Colonel Fitzgerald was on Kitchener's personal staff and was one of those who went down in the Hampshire. His body was afterwards found on the rocks of north Scotland. The will gives to the other officers of Kitchener's staff $1000 each.

The will was dated November 2, 1914.
